

Chronotopos – A Journal of Translation History

Open Call for Papers: Issue 2 – Volume 3 (2021)

Chronotopos aims at contributing to the ongoing interdisciplinary conversation on translation and interpreting history. We invite researchers from all related disciplines to hand in their papers on:

- Theoretical and methodological aspects of translation history
- Translation events in history
- History of translation studies

Chronotopos is a multilingual journal that publishes articles (double-blind peer review), book reviews, conference reports and documents of translation history in English, French and German. For contributions in other languages, please contact the editors before submission.

Important dates

- Submission of articles for Issue 2/2021 – 31st July 2021
- Submission of book reviews & conference reports – 1st September 2021

Contact

Please register online and check the submission policy for further information. Do not hesitate to contact the editorial team at chronotopos@univie.ac.at with your ideas, questions and comments.